

Teaching Chinese as a Second Language at Xi'an Jiaotong-Liverpool University

Overview

Located in Suzhou, China, Xi'an Jiaotong-Liverpool University (XJTLU) is a young, dynamic and EMI university founded in 2006, and is a unique collaborative institution and first joint-venture university in China to offer both UK (University of Liverpool) and Chinese (Ministry of Education) accredited undergraduate degrees for more than 100 programmes. XJTLU also aims to become truly research-led and has committed significant investment into research development and the expansion of master's and PhD student numbers on campus. The university has over 18,000 students and nearly 1000 academic staff representing in excess of 90 nationalities. For detailed information about the university, please visit www.xjtlu.edu.cn

The School of Languages is a dynamic and international centre, currently with over 200 full-time teaching staff from twelve different countries. We are involved in the teaching of English for Academic Purposes (EAP), and Modern Languages. Our staff strive to make the School of Languages a global go-to Centre of Excellence where effective and inspiring teaching is enhanced with cutting-edge technologies and focused on the specific learning needs of our students. The Modern Languages Centre (MLC) is committed to teaching excellence in Chinese, Japanese and Spanish. As a rapidly growing centre with nearly 50 administrative and teaching staff members, the MLC combines a communicative approach and task-based teaching in the classroom to improve students' modern language listening, speaking, reading and writing skills.

TCSL at XJTLU

The Chinese Language Division at XJTLU delivers a wide range of courses to help international students develop both Chinese language skills and cultural understanding in Suzhou – a city that uniquely preserves traditional Chinese culture and presents modern appeal. Over 5,000 international students from more than 80 countries have taken Chinese at XJTLU to date.

Highlights

- Curriculum tailored to your level - from beginner to advanced; from language to culture
- Interactive virtual learning environment - to refresh your learning experience
- Full Quality Assurance processes - aligned with UK Higher Education standards
- Abundant extracurricular activities & field trips – to explore modern life in historical Suzhou

Contact

Scan the QR code to follow our official WeChat account to see photos of previous events, student projects, and other features of the programmes offered by the Chinese language division at XJTLU.

Contact: LearnChinese@xjtlu.edu.cn .

