The 8-week Intensive Immersion Program

The 8-week language intensive helps students make immense gains in their Chinese language progress in a short time, no matter what their level is at the beginning of the summer. Watch this short video from a former Level 1 student to see why she called the experience "incredibly rewarding." The program is an ideal springboard for students before they embark on a study abroad program or internship, or as an alternative to study abroad for some students.

The MA in Chinese Program

The Master's program prepares Chinese language teachers for both K-12 and higher education, giving graduates the knowledge they need to succeed in the areas of linguistics, culture, and pedagogy. Open to current or aspiring Chinese language educators, the MA program is a diverse group of students who take advantage of the summer environment in which they learn alongside the students in the 8-week intensive. Students in the MA program have 10 years to complete their degree through a variety of flexible pathways, including summers-only options and choices that include a mix of summer and academic year study. Our MA courses are open to qualifying students who are not pursuing the MA degree.

Both programs feature the Middlebury Language Pledge, so students are using Chinese at all times for communication during the program.
